

ABSTRACT

5 The present invention is based on the finding that two fimbrial structures are specific for Salmonella enterica subspecies 1 bacteria. Due to their specificity they can be used to provide vaccines against Salmonella enterica subspecies I as well as for detection of Salmonella enterica subspecies I.